

There are many cafés in my city, but the café that I'm going to talk about is my favourite one. It's located in the centre of my city, so it is accessible from all parts of the city. It takes me about an hour to go there by subway, but it doesn't matter.

As I said, the café is a little far away from my home, so I only go there once a week, basically on Sunday afternoon. I usually go to the gym near this café at 10:00 o'clock, and after some muscle training I always go there for a break.

One of the best things about this café is the music taste of the shopkeeper. I know he is a violin player, so this café often plays some classical music, like Beethoven, Bach, Chopin and other famous artists that I haven't heard. Besides, the café also sells various types of light foods, such as salads, sandwiches, and chicken rolls. Oh, I love the chicken rolls the café provides, they were made with chicken breast instead of fried chicken, very friendly for fitness people.

Anyway, I love this café, mainly because of its background music, environment and food. I have introduced it to many people and this leads I often meet some old friends there.
